

Mark is 41 years old and has been a full member of the PGA since 1996, currently holding AA status.

Starting his career in the Westcountry, Mark qualified second in the annual PGA trainee of the year award, gaining a Titleist scholarship.

Mark is currently studying for his PhD in Sport, Exercise and Rehabilitation Science through Birmingham University. His areas of research focus on the impact of exercise on golf swing biomechanics and kinematics. As part of his ongoing personal development programme, Mark also regularly undertakes further study, such as the Thomas Myers Anatomy Trains Myofascial Slings course which he completed recently.

Mark Bull Golf provides 3D analysis, biomechanics and golf services to a range of leading players and golfing organisations and is the contracted biomechanist for ProGolf Health, serving over 20 leading tour professionals.

Mark presents regularly to leading conferences and sporting organisations and is a contributor to magazines on golf biomechanics and exercise (see right for more links and examples). He runs the highly successful 'train like a tour pro' camps, where he worked alongside world-leading golf physio Ramsay McMaster.
